FOREIGN OFFICE AND EXECUTIVE RECORDS 1790 - 1900

INTRODUCTION

The records of the Foreign Office and Executive record group span the years 1790 to 1900. They consists of minutes, reports, petitions, resolutions, letters, letterbooks, treaties, passports, consular commissions, diaries, financial records, and broadsides. Various accessions were received from the Office of Secretary of Hawaii and the Public Lands Office. This finding aid describes two general Foreign Office and Executive series. The volume of described records is 26.83 linear feet. The records are unrestricted.

AGENCY HISTORY

Department of Foreign Affairs

The office of the Minister for Foreign Relations was authorized by the Act to Organize the Executive Ministries of the Hawaiian Islands, which passed on October 29, 1845. Its functions were established by the Second Act of Kamehameha III, passed on April 27, 1846, which organized the executive departments. The department was responsible for relations with foreign governments by accrediting special emissaries on diplomatic missions and consular agents resident in foreign ports, for receiving representatives of foreign governments, for protecting national security, for serving as the intermediary to register foreign vessels and settling affairs involving foreign residents, and for issuing passports.

The functions of the department terminated on June 14, 1900 when the Organic Act established territorial government.

Executive Agencies

The Constitution of 1840 vested the King with the executive power of the Kingdom of Hawaii. He directed the army and government property, made treaties, received foreign ministers, appointed governors of islands, and served as chief judge of the Supreme Court until the Judiciary Department was established in 1847. The Act to Organize the Executive Ministries in 1845 further defined his powers to include appointing executive ministers, approving ministerial instructions, leasing of lands, signing legislative acts, granting pardons, directing cession of lands to the government, issuing charters of incorporation and patents, accrediting Hawaiian diplomatic agents, and presiding over the impeachment of ministers. Act 1 of the Executive and Advisory Councils of the provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, approved on January 20, 1893, vested the powers and duties of the King in the President of the Provisional Government.

FOREIGN OFFICE AND EXECUTIVE

The Privy Council, authorized by the Act to Organize the Executive Ministries on October 29, 1845, was composed of the executive ministers and governors of islands serving as honorary members. With the King in Council, it received foreign policy documents and approved the declaration of embargoes, orders of nobility, cutting of timber and use of coral reefs, prices for the sale and leases of government land, audit of internal taxes, the budget, assessment and minting of coins, regulations, compensation of teachers and diplomatic agents, granting of letters patent of denization, and appointments of the local officials. Ministerial proposals were presented in the Privy Council. The duties of the Privy Council lapsed when the monarchical government was abrogated by the Proclamation of the Committee of Safety on January 17, 1893.

The Cabinet Council, by the Act I of Kamehameha III in 1845, acted as a consulting body for policies of the executive ministries. It also received and directed the publication of diplomatic correspondence, directed the accreditation of Hawaiian diplomatic agents and commission of consular agents, approved departmental seals. Act 1 of the Executive and Advisory Councils of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, approved on January 20, 1893, vested the powers and duties of the Cabinet of the Hawaiian Kingdom in the Executive Council of the Provisional Government.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Foreign Office and Executive record group includes records created by and collected by the Department of Foreign Affairs and by the following executive agencies, the King, the Privy Council of State and the Cabinet Council. It includes the records of pre-constitutional rule, the Kingdom, Provisional Government and Republic of Hawaii. The span of dates of the records is from 1790 to 1900. This record group was created by the Public Archives of Hawaii in 1906, shortly after the opening of the Archives. Robert C. Lydecker, librarian, began with a chronological arrangement of the papers from 1790 to 1849. The basic arrangement began by Lydecker has been retained.

This finding aid will begin the process of replacing the existing folder list of the collection. It describes two series of combined Foreign Office and Executive records, a series of numbered documents (Series 401) and a series documents from 1790 to 1849 arranged in chronological order (Series 402), as well as letters received by the Department of Foreign Affairs from foreign officials in Hawaii (Series 403).

Series 401, Numbered Documents, consists of undated documents that were addressed to either executive offices or the Department of Foreign Affairs, and were found separated from evidence of their transmittal or receipt. To manage the series, the staff of the Public Archives of Hawaii assigned numbers to the documents, and the documents are so stamped. Subsequent to being numbered, a few documents were transferred to other files in the State Archives, and are so noted.

Series 402, Chronological File, contains the earliest documents in the State Archives of contact and intercourse by Native Hawaiians with Western governments. It documents activities of the turbulent period in the 1830's and 1840's when the transition from chiefly rule to constitutional government was made and the independence of Hawaiian Islands was secured. This series may lack incoming letters from 1845 to 1849, the replies for which are recorded in the letterbooks of outgoing letters. It may also lack diplomatic and consular correspondence that were published by direction of the Cabinet Council in departmental reports or newspapers. Outgoing letters Foreign Office letters are recorded in letterbooks which will constitute a separate series.

Some folders were rearranged to conform to the chronological arrangement of the series. Those folders that contain documents relating to a subject or incident over a range of dates are marked with the notation "(filed as of)" followed by the subject. For records from 1790 to 1843, a calendar of documents previously recorded on file dividers, has been incorporated in the container list. The spelling of names used on the documents has been retained.

In Series 403, Correspondence With Foreign Officials In Hawaii, the folders constituting the category Foreign Officials in Hawaii were assembled in a series and arranged by county or city-state, then chronologically. The previous arrangement was by year; then by category, i.e., Foreign Officials in Hawaii; then country or city-state; then chronologically. Letters from 1850 to 1855 have been indexed, and there is a card identifying the office held by the official.

For preservation, selected documents containing tears and/or loss of text in both series were withdrawn and facsimiles were substituted. In Series 402 and 403, embrittled and lacy drafts of outgoing letters that are recorded in letterbooks were also withdrawn, and referrals are made to the letterbooks. Oversized documents were segregated and are filed separately.

The strengths of the collection are its extensive documentation of the foreign relations of the Hawaiian Government from the inception of constitutional government and the documentation of issues brought before the executive agencies during the transition from chiefly rule to constitutional monarchy. The weakness is the scarcity of records from 1790 to 1840.

Access to the records is unrestricted, except documents that are withdrawn for preservation or security.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

401 NUMBERED DOCUMENTS. No dates. .5 lin. ft. Arranged numerically.

This series consists of undated documents that are separated from the letter of transmittal. It includes reports, petitions, applications, resolutions, letters to the King, Privy Council, Cabinet Council, or Department of Foreign Affairs. Subjects include exchange of gifts with foreign nations; receptions for visiting naval squadrons; exchange of decorations; diplomatic etiquette and salutes; treaty negotiations; government employees; appointments of local officials; petitions for clemency, commutation, pardons, restoration of civil rights; applications for licenses and incorporation of business; draft legislation and regulations.

This series shows a broad range of government activities. Its weakness is that the undated documents exist in isolation, losing information about its creation or receipt.

Some documents are in Hawaiian, and many have been translated into English. To access individual documents, see the Subject and Name Indexes or the Container List for an enumeration of documents. Access is unrestricted except documents that are withdrawn for preservation.

402 CHRONOLOGICAL FILE. 1790-1849. 12.75 linear feet. Arranged chronologically.

The series consists of transactions of the pre-constitutional rulers, of the King, the kuhina nui or premier, the Privy Council, the Cabinet Council, and the Department of Foreign Affairs with ministerial and non-ministerial officials, captains of visiting ships from foreign nations, foreign officials and consular officers, and Hawaiian residents. It includes correspondence of the King, the kuhina nui, the governors of islands, members of the Privy Council, and Minister of Foreign Affairs; drafts of outgoing letters by Foreign Minister R.C. Wyllie's from 1845 to 1849; documents relating to court cases prior to 1847; diplomatic instructions; drafts of treaties; proclamations and orders of the King or island governors; and bills of sales of ships. Subjects include diplomatic mission to secure the recognition of Hawaiian independence, the controversy relating to the admission of Catholic missionaries, duty on spirits, Charlton land case, seizure of the Hawaiian Islands and establishment of the British Commission in 1843, disputes with foreign consuls over the treatment of foreign citizens; impeachment charges against G.P. Judd; and treaty negotiations. Court cases relating to Skinner vs. Dominis, French & Greenway, and Ladd & Co are found in the series.

The strength of the series is the documentation of the period establishing constitutional government and securing Hawaiian independence. It shows the range of issues brought before the executive agencies during the transition from chiefly to constitutional government. It also contains the earliest written documentation in the State Archives of contact by Native Hawaiians with the west. The weaknesses of the series are the scarcity of documentation between 1790 and 1840 and the relative lack of incoming letters compared with outgoing letters.

Many documents prior to 1845 are in Hawaiian, and most have been translated into English. Translations are generally filed before the original document in Hawaiian.

Related F.O. and Ex. records are Foreign Office letterbooks, correspondence relating to treaties, Cabinet Council and Privy Council records, and records of the British Commission . Supreme Court cases beginning in 1847 are found in the records of the Judiciary. Correspondence of island governors are found in the following series: Correspondence of Governor of Hawaii, 1847-1889, Series 67; Correspondence of Governor of Maui, 1846-1893, Series 71; and Correspondence of Governor of Oahu, 1844-1893; Series 75. For other related records, see Private Collections, particularly M-126, William Richards Collection, relating to the mission to secure recognition of Hawaiian independence, and M-224, Admiral Richard Thomas Collection, relating to restoration of Hawaiian sovereignty. For diplomatic correspondence printed by order of the Cabinet Council, see Hawaii Government Publications in the Library or contemporary newspapers, particularly the Polynesian.

For access, see the Subject and Name Indexes on card or the container list for a list of documents from 1790 to 1843. Access is unrestricted except documents that are withdrawn for preservation.
