

PHOTOGRAPH COLLECTION CONTAINER LIST

INTRODUCTION

This container list provides intellectual access to the Hawaii State Archives Photograph Collections. The list is divided into four sections which reflect the organization of the photograph collections:

1. Loose photographs
2. Oversize photographs
3. Photograph Albums

The loose photographs are subdivided into a general collection followed by named collections in alphabetical order. Each collection of loose photographs is arranged alphabetically by subject at the folder level.

The oversize photographs are arranged alphabetically by general subject, and thereunder alphabetically by photograph or group of photographs. The list is cross-referenced to folders.

The photograph albums are arranged by album number. Several methods have been used to list album contents. There is no overall listing by subject cross-referenced to individual albums.

The Archives also has aerial photographs. Ask the Reference Archivist to see the Finding Aid to Aerial Photographs.

In addition to photographs, the Archives has a collection of photographic negatives. The negative index is in two parts: people and subject by individual negative. It is located in card index "B" in the reference room.

There are no restrictions on access. Reproduction is governed by U.S. copyright law. Specific restrictions exist in some cases. See the Archives Procedures Manual, Policy on use of the Photograph Collections.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS

INTRODUCTION

The photograph album collection consists of nearly 100 albums of varying age containing a wide variety of materials, primarily snapshots and postcards, but with more than a few examples of other media. An even wider variety of subject matter may be found in the albums. The only common threads in the albums are their depictions of Hawaii and their serving as records of their compilers' interests.

Each album's content is depicted in detail in the following pages; however, no easy search is possible in this section because there is no order, either by subject, by person or by form (medium). This results from a conscious decision to retain the albums as distinct units rather than break them up and re-organize their contents by, for example, subject matter.

If an item of interest is discovered during a search, the user need only request the album, by number, which contains that item, and it will be retrieved using the location table at the end of this section.

At the end of this section is a list of the albums of the Nancy Bannick Collection. Although they are not part of the general album collection, their format is such that it is more logical to describe them in the album section than in the loose photographs section. Further, they are listed only by general contents, rather than inventoried by item.

Introductory Statement

The Photographic Album Collection is an eclectic collection of albums donated to the State Archives by various benefactors. We have kept the albums in their original state and order that they were in upon donation. The following pages are finding aids for each individual album with an indexed listing each album's contents.

How to request a photographic album

To request a photographic album, put the album's number, found at the top of each page, in the call no. box on the request slip and the name of the album in the description.

Description on original inventory: "Airplane Flight from Mainland, 1934"

From Collection: M-420, Lawrence McCully Judd

Page	Description
2 pp	blank
1 p	inscribed with information on flight; 2 calling cards glued on reverse
11 pp	with single 8 x 10 in. photo affixed and caption on each page; includes photos of aircraft in flight over Oahu and taxiing in Pearl Harbor.

1 p	with 10 x 13 in. autographed group photo of naval aviators; no caption
6 pp	with four 5x7 in. photos affixed to each page. Most photos are by Tai Sing Loo and most include captions. Some deal with the arrival of the VP-10 aircraft in Pearl Harbor; some are scenic views of Hawaii; some deal with Lawrence McCully Judd and others; some show soldiers in formation and passing in review. All these latter seem to have been added as an afterthought; they do not relate to the flight of VP-10.
