Elizabeth Pruitt Farrington

Introduction

The Elizabeth Pruitt Farrington Collection, 1954-1957, documents Elizabeth Farrington's one regular term in the 84th Congress as Delegate to Congress from Hawaii, 1955-1956. Mrs. Farrington's papers for the balance of Joseph R. Farrington's 1953-1954 (83rd Congress) unexpired term are interfiled in his collection, M-473. The present collection contains bill files and correspondence series, totaling 16.9 linear feet. Mrs. Farrington gave the collection to the Hawaii State Archives on July 12, 1957. Access to the collection is unrestricted.

Scope and Content

The Elizabeth Pruitt Farrington Papers document Elizabeth Farrington's term as Delegate to Congress from Hawaii during the 84th Congress, 1955-1956. All series are coterminous with her term in office. The collection contains records that are not duplicated elsewhere and it has no gaps.

The collection contains five series: (1) Congressional Bills, (2) Statehood Bills, (3) Reports on Legislation, (4) Subject Correspondence, and (5) Statehood Correspondence. The three bill series relate directly to the legislation she introduced, and the two correspondence series relate to her assessments of the possibilities of legislation in correspondence with constituents, Territorial government agencies and the federal departments.

Mrs. Farrington sponsored legislation for the Hawaii Geophysics Institute at the University of Hawaii, for the City of Refuge National Historical Park on Hawaii, for statehood, and for Territorial legislature reapportionment. The various series reflect these interests.

During processing, the collection was separated from the Joseph Rider Farrington papers, where her papers for the 84th Congress formed a distinct subgroup, even though she retained the same filing system as her husband. Her papers for the 83rd Congress (Special Election, 1954) remain interfiled with those of her husband in that collection (M-473). The Congressional Bills series of the present collection was arranged into numerical order from a previous random order, and the series of the whole collection were rearranged into an order reflecting their legislative purpose. A newspaper clipping scrapbook containing clippings duplicated in library holdings elsewhere was deaccessioned. Folder numbers 458-496 of the original series 6, Military Academies Appointments, relating to appointments to military academies, were deaccessioned in accordance with instructions from the branch chief on February 15, 1994.

Series Descriptions

1. Congressional Bills. 1955-1956. 3.1 linear feet.

Arranged in numerical order.

Documents Delegate Farrington's actions to introduce and obtain passage of legislation on the floor of the House and in the committees of the House and Senate. Contains correspondence, telegrams, telephone memoranda, Territorial legislative resolutions, Hawaii private organization resolutions, typescript bills, printed bills, copies of committee correspondence with executive branch departments, called the departmental reports,

Senate companion bills, typescript statements of testimony before committees, committee reports and copies of printed laws.

Subjects include the Hawaii Geophysics Institute, the City of Refuge National Historical Park, highways, Territorial and City and County bond issues, and fisheries research. See also series #4, Subject Correspondence, under "Appropriations," all "Hawaii" files, and House committee names, for further information on legislation.

2. Statehood Bills, 84th Congress. 1955-1956. 6 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Documents Mrs. Farrington's actions to obtain statehood on the House floor and in the committees of the 84th Congress. Contains copies of bills and printed laws, correspondence, committee reports, statements given in testimony and press releases. See also series #1, Congressional Bills, for information on HR 49, another statehood bill.

3. Reports on Legislation. 1954-1956. 9.0 linear inches.

Arranged by legislative session.

Documents Delegate Farrington's actions to report back on the progress of legislation requested by the Territorial legislature, and on her votes on other legislation of importance to Hawaii. Contains individual sheets to which are attached bill copies, committee reports, printed law copies, and status notations on individual bills. See also series #4, Subject Correspondence, under headings of "Legislature," "Hawaii--Legislation," and "Farrington--Politics--Luncheon for Members of Legislature," for further information on Elizabeth Farrington's relationship to the Territorial legislature.

4. Subject Correspondence. 1954-1956. 11.9 linear feet.

Arranged alphabetically by subject.

Documents Elizabeth Farrington's actions to assess the prospects of legislation through correspondence with constituents, the Territorial legislature and federal departments. Contains correspondence, inter-office memoranda, telegrams, petitions and private organization resolutions and newspaper clippings. See especially folder headings of "Appropriations", "Farrington", "Hawaii--Legislation", and the individual House committee names for more information on legislation. Includes correspondence from constituents requesting assistance with executive branch agencies. Series also contains correspondence with Riley Allen, editor of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, and Mrs. Farrington's political campaign material.

5. Statehood Correspondence. 1955-1957. 8.0 linear inches.

Arranged alphabetically.

Documents Delegate Farrington's actions to publicize the campaign for Hawaii statehood among the public at large. Also includes correspondence and statements relating to the February-May, 1955 statehood hearings in the House and Senate (84th Congress).

Scope and Content

The Joseph R. Farrington Collection documents Delegate Farrington's six terms in Congress (1943-1954). It includes seven series of papers, divided into two bill and three correspondence series, one "appointment" series to post office positions, and one tape and phonodisc series. All series are coterminous with his period in office; the phonodisc series (#7) contains a recording from 1938.

These series comprise original and carbon copies of correspondence that are unique to this collection. There are no notable gaps in the series.

The primary role of the Delegate was legislative. In accordance with Section 85 of the Hawaii Organic Act, the Delegate served in the House of Representatives for a two year term, could introduce legislation, debate on the floor and testify in committee hearings, but not vote in committee or on the floor. The two legislative series, the Congressional bills and statehood bills, contain information documenting his legislative activity, in particular his special interest in statehood for Hawaii and in making the immigration laws as they pertained to Asians more liberal.

The correspondence series, including the Miscellaneous--Subject, Statehood, and Honolulu Office, contain information documenting his responses to constituent requests. His responses often took the form of planning for legislation, sometimes only of working out administrative remedies, and sometimes of no action at all, as in the case of such insoluble issues as martial law in Hawaii.

Farrington, J.R.

Subjects of the correspondence series include issues of contemporary importance to Hawaii, such as the acute housing shortage in 1946-1947; the lack of a Veterans Affairs regional office in 1945-1946; the ILWU strike of 1946 and its effect on transportation; the need for expanded civilian airport facilities after the War; the Territorial Board of Agriculture's view that fishing would become a major part of the Hawaii economy after the War which justified seeking federal assistance to fisheries research; and, finally, inter alia, the constant need for improved harbors, roads and other public works. Last is his file of appointments to post office positions in Hawaii.

When former Delegate to Congress Elizabeth P. Farrington, Joseph Rider Farrington's wife, gave this collection to the Archives in 1957, it contained the bill and correspondence files of her 1 1/2 terms in Congress interfiled with Farrington's. Where it was possible, her records were removed and arranged into a separate collection. The series were then rearranged in order of their importance to the introduction of legislation in Congress. The Congressional bills were arranged into numerical order, the statehood bills into chronological order, and the two "name" subseries of the Honolulu Office File into a single alphabetical order.

In addition, all the printed executive agency and private research reports used by Farrington as the information on which to present testimony and debate, comprising 2 linear feet, was deaccessioned because it contained virtually no annotations or other information explaining Farrington's actions in Congress. Newspaper clipping scrapbooks were deaccessioned because they contained material duplicated in libraries. Folder numbers 2298-2391 of series 7, Military Academy Appointments, relating to appointments to military academies were deaccessioned in accordance with instructions from the branch chief on February 15, 1994.

Series Descriptions

1. Congressional Bills. 1943-1954. 9 linear feet.

Arranged by Congress (i.e., 78th, 79th, etc.), thereunder by chamber of origination (House or Senate), by type (bill or resolution), and then numerically.

Documents the actions Farrington took to introduce and obtain passage of legislation in accordance with section 85 of the Hawaii Organic Act. Contains constituent letters requesting action, Territorial Legislature resolutions requesting federal legislation, typescript bills, printed bills, copies of committee correspondence with relevant executive agencies, Farrington correspondence with committee chairmen of House and Senate, committee reports, Senate companion bills, typescript statements before committees, speeches, press releases relating to bills, Congressional Record tearsheets containing testimony and debate, printed acts, laws, and newspaper clippings. Subject matter of bills includes immigration and Territorial government salaries, pensions, organization, bond issues, special appropriations, and public works. See also series #4, Miscellaneous-Subject Correspondence, documenting the origin, through constituent correspondence, of much of this legislation.

Farrington, J.R.

2. Statehood Bills. 1943-1954. 2.5 linear feet.

Arranged chronologically by Congress.

Documents the actions Farrington took to obtain statehood legislation over his six terms. Contains bill copies, committee reports, correspondence of committee chairmen with executive agency heads on statehood, Farrington correspondence with committee chairmen, constituents and others, telephone memoranda, telegrams, statements given in testimony, speeches, press releases relating to statehood legislation, Congressional Record tearsheets containing House and Senate debate on statehood, background information on Hawaii for testimony before committees, and newspaper clippings. See also series #3, Statehood Correspondence, for background on the public campaign for statehood Farrington kept up paralleling his effort in Congress.

3. Statehood Correspondence. 1943-1954. 6.5 linear feet.

Arranged in two subseries: 1.) 78th-82nd Congresses, and 2.) 83rd Congress, and thereunder alphabetically by name, organization or subject.

Documents the campaign for statehood Farrington carried on through correspondence with the public in all states, with both individuals and organizations, with the aim of providing them with accurate information about Hawaii and statehood. Farrington occasionally expressed the hope to them that his correspondents would make this information and the new attitudes it might engender about statehood for Hawaii known to their own Congressmen.

4. Miscellaneous--Subject Correspondence. 1943-1954. 48.4 linear feet.

Arranged by Congress, and thereunder alphabetically by name, organization or subject.

Documents actions Farrington took to respond to constituent requests, sometimes resulting in original or tie-in legislation. Contains correspondence from individuals, members of civic organizations, companies or the Territorial government requesting action; Farrington correspondence with the relevant federal agencies and with committee chairmen; and Farrington replies to the originator outlining his plans. Includes telephone memoranda, telegrams, circular letters, Congressional Record tearsheets containing his statements on the floor or debates, speeches, press releases relating to legislation, and newspaper clippings relating to the subject matter of the request or to his introduction of legislation. Subjects include Asian immigration, statehood, labor and strike issues, veterans' affairs, especially transfers and demobilization, public works and the post-war housing shortage.

Includes also approximately 1.5 linear feet of correspondence with Riley Allen, editor of the Star-Bulletin, who often wrote to Farrington in regard to editorial policy, news content, and management and personnel decisions. Because Allen frequently wrote about editorial policy, the correspondence contains much inside information and comment on Hawaii and national politics. The folders titled "Campaigns" contain the speech and radio talk texts of Farrington's political campaigns, which outline his legislative program and reasoning.

5. Honolulu Office Correspondence. 1943-1954. 2.9 linear feet.

Arranged in two subseries: by subject and by name, both arranged alphabetically.

Documents Farrington's correspondence with constituents while in Honolulu during Congressional recesses, Congressional hearings, or electoral campaigns. Contains correspondence from constituents, transmittal letters and memoranda from his Washington, D.C. office relating to constituent requests, and Farrington's replies. Also contains telegrams, inter-office correspondence and speeches. See particularly letters from Margaret C. Turner, Farrington's Washington office secretary and Edith F. Dias, Farrington's Honolulu office secretary, interspersed among the letters, for frequently well-informed comments about Farrington's legislative activity. See also series #4, Miscellaneous--Subject Correspondence, for folders on Margaret C. Turner and Edith F. Dias correspondence for the same type of information.

6. Post Office Appointments. (1938)-1943-1957. 0.9 linear feet.

Arranged alphabetically.

Documents actions Farrington took to recommend candidates to the Postmaster General for appointments to head post offices in Hawaii. Contains correspondence from Republican Party county chairmen, from applicants, telephone memoranda with Postmaster General and with applicants. Files of Delegate Elizabeth P. Farrington on same subject matter interfiled with Farrington correspondence because process of appointment frequently extended beyond one term.

7. Phonodiscs and Tape Recordings. ca. 1938-1953. 10 linear inches.

Arranged by size of disc and thereafter chronologically.

This series documents his campaign and publicity talks, interviews and speeches on radio; includes campaign rally music and national Republican Party recordings of Eisenhower and other material for the 1950 and 1956 congressional races. Contains 21 phono disc and 7 tape recordings of radio interviews and other material. See also series #4, Miscellaneous--Subject Correspondence, for "JRF--Personal" folders containing radio interview scripts.

Fisher hearings, 1912.

History.

Walter L. Fisher, Secretary of the Interior, came to Honolulu, Sept., 1912, at the request of Governor Frear and Delegate Kalaniana'ole and by direction and instruction of the President to learn of conditions in Hawaii, especially those relating to the disposition and development of public lands and control and development of Island transportation facilities.

Public hearings, instigated by charges of Delegate Kalaniana'ole against Governor Frear and his administration, were held. The Secretary concluded that the charges were not sustained and he practically vindicated Governor Frear.

Collection. Letters and papers of Abraham Fornander (1880s).

MARY E. (ROBINSON) FOSTER
1844-1930

The collection consists of Mrs. Mary E. Foster's business papers from the files of her business agent and attorney-in-fact, E. H. Wodehouse. They were deposited in the Archives by Bishop Trust Company in 1968.

Most of the documents in the collection concern Mrs. Foster's activities as a landowner and investor. Mrs. Foster owned property on Oahu, the island of Hawaii and in California. Her major landholding was in Kahana, Oahu.

Mrs. Foster was not an original shareholder in the Hui of Kahana, the co-tenancy which purchased the ahupuaa of Kahana in 1875, but she eventually became the major shareholder in the Hui. At her death in 1930, Mrs. Foster owned 100  $\frac{3}{4}$  of the 104 shares of the Hui. E. H. Wodehouse, who married Mrs. Foster's niece Iwalani Ward, was a minor shareholder in the Hui and served many years as its treasurer. A large portion of this collection deals with the Hui of Kahana.

The bulk of the Mary E. Foster papers are from the 1880's to 1944, the year E. H. Wodehouse ended his tenure as an executor of the Mary E. Foster Estate. The full span of these records is from Mrs. Foster's 1844 birth certificate to 1961 Kahana agricultural leases.

Besides the papers of Mrs. Foster, there are business letters and documents of other members of the Robinson family.

The collection is arranged as follows:

- A. Landholdings: Ownership records
- B. Mary E. Foster's Kahana properties / Hui of Kahana: Operations
- C. Mary E. Foster / Hui of Kahana account books
- D. Mary E. Foster / Hui of Kahana tax records
- E. Mary E. Foster: Business correspondences
- F. Mary E. Foster: Loans and investments
- G. Mary E. Foster / Robinson family personal and business papers
- H. Mary E. Foster Estate: Administration of the Estate

Walter F. Frear Collection

Introduction

The papers of Walter F. Frear (1863-1948) document the public period of Frear's career, when he served as chief justice of the Territorial Supreme Court, and as governor of the Territory. The majority of the collection, that concerning his governorship, was a gift from Mrs. Urban (Virginia Frear) Wild, his daughter, given in 1976. The collection is unrestricted; it consists of 1.25 linear feet.

Biography

Walter F. Frear served most notably as governor of the Territory of Hawaii (1907-1913), and immediately before that as chief justice of the Hawaii Supreme Court (1900-1906). In 1913 he retired to private life and resumed his career as a lawyer, later became president of Bishop Trust Co. and throughout remained a civic leader.

The major events of Frear's life are relatively well known. He was born on October 29, 1863 in California, came to Hawaii with his parents in 1870, graduated from Punahou School in 1881, from Yale (A.B.) in 1885 and from Yale Law School 1890.

He returned to Hawaii in 1885, taught at Punahou until 1888, and then after law school went into practice with Lorrin A. Thurston. In 1893 Queen Liliuokalani appointed him Associate Justice of the Hawaii Supreme Court, and he continued in that position until 1900, when President McKinley appointed him Chief Justice. He remained Chief Justice until 1906.

In 1907 President Roosevelt appointed him Governor of the Territory, and he served in that capacity until 1913. Frear was a Republican and a member of the "Honolulu party" in contrast to the "planters' party." Under his management the Territorial government expanded harbors, invested in education, expanded county self-government, and surveyed new homestead lands.

Frear also exercised his legal talents on a number of occasions. Besides being Chief Justice, he helped to draft the Organic Act of the Territory, and served twice on commissions to codify Hawaii law. These two commissions produced the Hawaii Revised Laws of 1905 and 1925. He also served on the Tax Commission (1907).

After serving as governor, Frear returned to private law practice until 1925 when he became president of Bishop Trust Co. He retired from that post in 1934, but remained active as a director of several companies and as a leader and participant in several civic and social organizations until his death on January 22, 1948.

Scope and Content Note

Frear's papers consist of diaries, correspondence and typewritten and published items falling roughly into two groupings: items written by him, and those he collected to provide information on particular topics. Most of these are papers that he collected in his official capacity. They remain important because as of 1990 there was little in print concerning Frear and his impact on Hawaii.

As Chief Justice, Frear issued many opinions for the Court, and the Case Notes seem to be his notes on these cases. While governor, he also kept diaries. These are not full discussions of official business, but can assist the researcher in dating his activities.

The rest of the collection consists of papers relating to the development of legislation during his tenure as governor, mostly typescripts and printed materials.

Series Descriptions

DIARIES 1907-1913. 8.5 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Handwritten entries on his daily activities as governor recording whom he met, letters he wrote, inspection trips, decisions regarding finances and appointments, etc. Most are single line entries.

CORRESPONDENCE. 1907-1913. .25 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Consists of letters received and sent in his capacity as governor, including an autographed letter from President Roosevelt congratulating him on accepting the governorship (July 9, 1908), telegram of Frear's acceptance, a letter indicating his interest in favoring Hawaiians as "landed proprietors," letters concerning homesteading and other topics.

PAPERS RELATING TO ANNEXATION. 1895-1898. .5 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Various speeches containing pro-annexation arguments, a copy of the Constitution of the Republic, a list of claims for damages against the Republic by persons arrested during the insurrection of 1895, and a letter of instructions to the U.S. Minister concerning the transfer of sovereignty.

SUPREME COURT CASE NOTES. 1899-1902, 1906-1907. .8 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Hand written notes on cases Frear heard as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, many on which he issued opinions for the court.

PAPERS RELATING TO THE ORGANIC ACT. 1900-1909. .75 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

One typed draft of the Organic Act with amendments and corrections in his handwriting, including a provision for women's suffrage; others concerning amendments to the Organic Act in 1909.

PAPERS RELATING TO PUBLIC LANDS. 1887-1912. 1 linear inch.

Arranged alphabetically by subject.

Documents on the use of Public Lands including: statistics on homestead lands; statistics on lands leased to plantations, including six published tables; four copies of leases of Public Lands to sugar companies (ca.1908); sample copies of lease agreements, some of which Frear may have had a hand in drafting; miscellaneous contracts concerning the leasing of Public Lands; and a copy of a brief filed by Prince Jonah Kuhio Kalaniana'oles's lawyer supplementing Kuhio's Complaint to the Secretary of the Interior of December 2, 1911 regarding Frear's alleged misuse of Public Lands.

PAPERS RELATING TO GOVERNOR'S REPORTS. 1887-1914. 3.25 linear inches.

Arranged alphabetically by subject, and then chronologically within the subject.

Includes draft bills to establish county governments in the Territory, including a special bill concerning Honolulu, all to be submitted to the Territorial Legislature along with a study comparing features of county governments of 83 U.S. cities; congressional laws relating to Hawaii concerning land; tables of revenues and expenditures for the Territory (1911-1912); records on Hansen's disease, including the proposed Territorial Republican Party platform on care for patients and a study recommending a campaign of prevention of Hansen's disease among school children; documents on public lands; tables of imports and exports of the Territory (1901-1908); and statistics and documents on population, immigration and labor. In general, a miscellaneous collection which may have formed a base of information he used to assist himself in composing the annual governor's reports to the U.S. Secretary of the Interior.

REPORTS. 1911-ca. 1913. .25 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Consists of Frear's partial drafts of reports mostly on Public Lands and homesteading, but also on the selection of district magistrates, revenues, etc., with a table of legislative action between 1901-1909 (i.e., bills passed, bills vetoed, etc.). Most of the material appears to be drafts of sections of his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior.

SPEECHES AND STATEMENTS. 1909-1912. .25 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Most concern the government of the Territory, and two in particular address public lands issues.

PERSONAL PAPERS. 1888-1938. 1 linear inch.

Arranged chronologically.

Consisting of articles and reports on various topics, including a published copy of the report of the Commission to Reorganize the Judiciary of 1888, handwritten instructions to a jury, draft of an article on the history of the Hawaiian judiciary by Frear, a draft of the history of Kaumakapili Church by Mary Dillingham Frear, his wife, (1938); and business papers concerning an investment plan.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS. 1891-1912. .125 linear inches.

Arranged chronologically.

Various newspaper editorials and stories in opposition to Frear, mainly concerning labor and homesteading problems.

M-312 French, William, 1794?-1851.

Personal history

1794? born Vermont.

1819 first visited Hawaii

1821-1830 connected with persons at Canton, China, at Sydney, N.S.W., and at Honolulu, under company name of Pitman, French & Co.; firm dissolved by limitations of copartnership and, after his two partners died, French, as sole survivor, became responsible for liabilities of the Co.

1825 established himself as a merchant in Honolulu.

1828 in partnership with Stephen Reynolds, John C. Jones and John Ebbets; converted former sugar mill into rum distillery, near Honolulu; temperance views and influence of missionaries and some of populace caused failure of business.

1830-1835 formed company with John Ebbets and others, under name of French & Co.; other partners died or otherwise withdrew from partnership, leaving French as sole survivor liable for debts of company.

1835 French married Lydia Panioloikawai (Hunt) at Kailua, Ha He took his sugar-making equipment and Chinese laborers to Kauai; in partnership with Governor Kaikioewa, set up a mill at Waimea, Kauai.

1837 sugar plantation at Waimea, Kauai, failed, partly because no land was granted for the venture and partly because of strong competition from Ladd & Co., Koloa, Kauai; mill equipment brought back of Honolulu.

1840 June 15 became silent co-partner in business in Honolulu with Francis John Greenway, an Englishman.

1842 April 7 Unexpectedly, Greenway announced his insolvency and appointed assignees to convert his estate to cash to settle his debts. In poor health and nearly blind, William French protested and proffered his own considerable estate to settle debts of the company. Very shortly, the affairs of French and Greenway were entangled in complications which ultimately involved the British Consul, the Hawaiian government and the whole business community of Honolulu.

1844 May Greenway was judged, by a jury trial, as having been insane for the previous two years; he was made a ward of the British Consul in Honolulu.
