

THE RECORDS OF THE
WAHIAWA SETTLEMENT ASSOCIATION
(1899-1939)

Introduction

The Wahiawa Settlement Association was formed in 1898 through the efforts of Mr. B.O. Clark. The town was called the Wahiawa Colony, or locally known as the California Colony. This colony was the first systematic effort ever made on the island of Oahu by a group of people to demonstrate what can be done to grow a variety of crops and fruits for commercial purposes.

As the name indicates, the colony was largely composed of former residents of California, who had many years experience of fruit growing in California. One of the main fruits grown was pineapple, and Wahiawa still remains a pineapple growing area today.

This collection of records range from accounts, agreements, assets, correspondence, minutes of meetings and various other documents of the Wahiawa Settlement Association. The period covered by the records are the years between 1899 and 1939. Other information on the Association can be found in Subject Index under Wahiawa, and the Wahiawa Settlement Association.

WALDO & COMPANY (1846? – 1848)

Giles Waldo, American merchant, arrived Honolulu on American bark Toulon on August 12, 1845, in company with Alexander G. Abell, U.S. Consul. Waldo was appointed U.S. Vice Consul, Lahaina, September 1845, and soon established Waldo & Company. By May 1847, he had opened an Oahu store and had taken in Edward S. Benson and Able Langlois of Honolulu, as partners. By July 1847, his interests included wholesale and retail merchandising, a hotel, billiard parlor and bowling alley. In February 1848, however, Waldo & Company dissolved the partnership and, in the following month, it declared itself in voluntary bankruptcy. Final settlement was concluded in 1851.

HENRY WATERHOUSE TRUST COMPANY LIMITED

The Henry Waterhouse Trust Company Limited was organized and a charter applied for November 1902 with the avowed object of "conducting a stock and bond brokerage business, operating fire insurance agencies, engaging in real estate and rental transactions and doing a general trust business". A clause in the charter provided that the company may "search, prepare and warrant abstracts of title". Officers included: Henry Waterhouse, Arthur B. Wood, Albert Waterhouse, Robert W. Shingle and Richard H. Trent.

After the death of Henry Waterhouse and the retirement of Arthur B. Wood because of ill health, the company was reorganized March 14, 1904. Robert W. Shingle and A. N. Campbell purchased the Waterhouse stock and Mr. Shingle became head of the company. He retired from the company in May 1925, and was succeeded by A. N. Campbell. The company was absorbed by Bishop Trust Company in February 1931.

WOMEN'S WAR WORK COUNCIL

The Council was formed in September 1917 by some thirty women representing various churches and clubs of Honolulu under the guidance of the Y.W.C.A. to "...act as a clearing house for all the social activities for enlisted (service) men, to encourage efforts already undertaken and to initiate movements wherever and whenever the need was found." The Council, during its brief existence, also interested itself in every movement for good in the community. Presumably, the organization was disbanded when its services were no longer in demand.

WORLD WAR I SERVICE RECORDS

These army and navy service cards were compiled by the offices of the War and Navy Departments under provisions of a Congressional Act approved July 11, 1911. They were created primarily for the use of State and Territorial authorities in connection with the administration of the various bonus, veterans preference, state compensation, or other laws on which action was based on service in World War I. The information on the cards was obtained from enlistment records and delivered to each state or territory as the cards were completed. They document residents of Hawaii who were in the armed forces during World War I or who enlisted in the Navy from the Territory of Hawaii, and may include some persons whose home address was not Hawaii.

The army service cards were sent to the Adjutant General, Territory of Hawaii beginning about 1926, and remained in his custody until transferred to the Hawaii Territorial Guard through Hawaii Defense Act Rule No. 64, dated July 1, 1943.

The navy service cards, created by the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, were sent to The Governor's Office and transferred to the Archives beginning March 1921.
