

LEGISLATURE OF THE HAWAIIAN KINGDOM

RECORDS OF THE LEGISLATURE OF THE HAWAIIAN KINGDOM 1840-1893

INTRODUCTION

The Records of the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom is a sub-group of the Records of the Legislature of Hawaii. It includes the Official Journals of the Legislature as well as numerous types of documents, such as bills, reports and resolutions. These records were created or received by members of the Legislature acting in their official capacities. After being stored in the attic of Iolani Palace, apparently under less than ideal conditions, they were among the first records accessioned by the Public Archives. During initial processing from about 1906 to 1910, the older journals were translated into English, and the records were partially indexed.

The volume totals 63.9 cubic/linear feet, including 6.2 linear feet in 50 oversized volumes, and 6.3 linear feet in ten drop-front boxes. Access to the collection is unrestricted.

AGENCY HISTORY

King Kamehameha III granted the first Constitution of the Hawaiian Islands on October 8, 1840. This date, which divides the history of the Kingdom into pre-constitutional and constitutional periods, is also the birthday of the Legislature of Hawaii, which assembled for the first time in Lahaina, Maui, from November 2 through 14, 1840.

The Constitution of 1840 named sixteen individuals, called "Nobles," to sit in government councils and provided that "No law of the nation shall be passed without their assent." It further specified that the council was, inter alia, to ". . . assemble annually, for the purpose of seeking the welfare of the nation . . .[and] transact such other business as the King shall commit to [it]." The Constitution of 1840 also established a representative body ". . . chosen by the people . . ." who were to ". . . sit in council with the Nobles and establish laws for the nation." The same document specified that the Nobles and representatives were to meet as separate bodies, although there is no evidence that they did so until 1851. The Constitution did not formally name the legislative body, but referred to it as the Nobles . . . and the representative body." They called themselves the "Legislative Council." Only Nobles met in the first session of the legislature, but they passed the law which set the number of representatives at seven, specified the islands from which they were to come, and established the manner by which they were to be chosen. Two acts passed in 1850 ("An Act to regulate the election of Representatives of the people" and "An act to increase the number of Representatives of the people in the Legislative Council") increased the number of representatives to 24, provided for their election by secret ballot, prescribed the qualifications of voters, and granted seats in the Nobles to Ministers of the Crown.

The legislature met in Lahaina until 1845. From April 12 of that year it met in Honolulu. The Constitution of 1852 formally vested legislative power in the House of Nobles, the House of Representatives, and the King. It also provided that the legislature "be styled the Legislature of the Hawaiian Islands". It required that the houses assemble annually in separate session, ". . . to make all manner of wholesome laws . . . as they judge to be for the welfare of the nation." It provided that representatives were to be compensated for their services; Nobles were to "sit without pay". It also increased the number of Nobles to thirty, to be appointed by the King, for life, and made the Ministers of the Crown ex officio members. The Nobles were also established as a court with "full and sole" authority to try any "officers of the Kingdom" impeached by the House of Representatives. The number of representatives, to be elected annually, was increased to not fewer than 24 or more than 40, "based upon the principle of equality . . . forever regulated and apportioned according to the population," the exact number to be determined by results of an official census. The number was fixed at 27 by Act in 1853.

The Constitution of 1864 reduced the number of Nobles to 20, provided for biennial sessions of the legislature, biennial election of representatives, and required that the Nobles and representatives sit together in joint session. Ministers retained ex officio membership in the Nobles. The legislature was to be "styled the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom." It was more commonly called the "Legislative Assembly". The number of representatives was increased to 28 in 1868 by Act.

The Constitution of 1887 changed the number of Nobles from 20 to 24, apportioned them among the several islands and provided for their direct election in 1888 to serve until 1890. It also established a scheme for election in 1890 of one-third of the Nobles to two-year terms, one-third to four-year terms and one-third to six-year terms. Biennially thereafter, one-third of the Nobles would be elected to six-year terms. This scheme was never fully implemented. The 1892 session of the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom was prorogued by the Queen on January 14, 1893, after sitting for 171 days. The Monarchy was overthrown three days later.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This sub-group documents the functioning of the legislative branch of the Hawaiian government, its interaction with the executive and, to some extent, the judiciary, from the beginning of Constitutional government in 1840 through the end of the monarchy in 1893. The records also, through correspondence, petitions, etc., provide insights into the issues of concern during the period, from international relations to such local problems as the stench from a slaughterhouse and the control of dogs. Most of the collection is manuscript, although some printed material is included. Many documents and journals are in Hawaiian; most have been translated.

The records have been divided into two series: Official Journals and General Records. The latter include bills; minutes and other procedural records; reports; resolutions and financial records. Some records are lacking. For example, although the General Records normally contain draft journals and minutes from which the Official Journals were prepared, the draft journals and minutes for 1886 are lacking. These gaps clearly reflect records which did not survive; less significant gaps in form also exist, but they may reflect records which were not created rather than records which have been lost.

The volume of records created and the standardization of their form both increased over time. The earliest records are unformatted, but a rapid evolution of form is obvious. By 1870, for example, printed covers for Bills, Reports, etc., had come into existence. R. C. Wyllie, well known for his efforts to preserve the documentary history of Hawaii, also contributed to its creation; his unfortunately illegible notes are ubiquitous in the earlier records.

Initial processing accomplished ca. 1907 included unfolding, organizing, foldering and indexing. Further processing since then included more detailed organizing, inventorying and translation. Consequently, processing associated with this description was limited to removal of the records from open shelf file units, refoldering and boxing in alkaline enclosures, removal of non-archival material and some limited rearrangement to enhance intellectual control.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

- 221 OFFICIAL JOURNALS. 1841-1892. 67.5 linear inches. 42 volumes (oversize); some loose sheets tipped in.
Arranged chronologically.
Contains the approved minutes of daily sessions of the Legislative Council (1841-1850); House of Nobles (1851-1859, 1862); House of Representatives (1854, 1856, 1858-1859); and Legislative Assembly (1864-1892) of the Hawaiian Kingdom. Compiled from draft minutes kept during each day's session and transcribed after adjournment. Documents the regular proceedings of the legislative body indicated for each volume. Consists primarily of a summary record of motions; bills and resolutions introduced, referred and read; and results of votes, sometimes including a record of individual votes cast. Occasionally includes a summary of discussion, points of order, waiver of rules and a record of petitions and other communications received. Normally includes, verbatim, the Monarch's speech, as well as the names of members, as a part of the journal of the first day of each legislative session. Provides a glimpse of the activities of individual members, measures they introduced and issues with which they were involved, from construction of roads to regulation of "spirituous liquor". Unlike journals of later legislatures, this series does not include the full text of committee reports. There are no restrictions on use of the journals, but care is required in handling the earlier volumes because of their fragility. More detailed material dealing with many of the issues summarized in this series is available in Series 222.
- 222 GENERAL RECORDS. 1840-1893. 588.5 linear inches. 117 5-inch boxes and 8 oversize volumes.
Arranged chronologically and thereunder by form, in numerical order when applicable.
Consists of the official files of the Legislative Council (1840-1850); House of Nobles and House of Representatives (1851-1863); and Legislative Assembly (1864-1893) of the Hawaiian Kingdom, probably assembled and maintained by the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly and his predecessors. Documents the routine proceedings of the Legislature, such as legislative histories on bill jackets. Also provides information and opinion on myriad specific issues, such as Asiatic immigration, Trans-Pacific communications and leprosy. Contains bills and laws, including constitutional amendments; communications and messages, including King's speeches, broadsides and proclamations; correspondence; financial records; draft journals and minutes used to create the official journals in Series 221; miscellaneous material; notices; petitions; procedural records, including House Rules, lists of Standing Committees, records of votes and orders of the day; reports; and resolutions. This arrangement is not absolute. Occasionally, reports are attached to petitions or resolutions; some petitions, reports, resolutions and records of votes are attached to and filed with bills. Petitions were the primary means by which constituents communicated with representatives and Nobles, and are a valuable source of insight into issues of concern in the community. The records are in both English and Hawaiian. Bills were prepared in both English and Hawaiian versions. Other material is in Hawaiian only; some, mainly petitions, has been translated into English.

LEGISLATURE OF THE REPUBLIC OF HAWAII

RECORDS OF THE LEGISLATURE OF THE REPUBLIC OF HAWAII 1895-1898

INTRODUCTION

The Records of the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii is a sub-group of the Records of the Legislature of Hawaii. It includes the Official Journals of the Legislature as well as numerous types of documents, such as bills, reports, resolutions and petitions. These records were created or collected by members of the Legislature acting in their official capacities. Although accession documents are lacking, these records were apparently among those which, prior to establishment of the Public Archives, were stored in camphor trunks in the attic of Iolani Palace. They would therefore have been among those in the custody of the Secretary of Hawaii which, on August 27, 1906, became the first records transferred to the custody of the Archives and moved into the new Archives building.

The records total 13.2 linear feet, of which 2.0 feet are taken up by 12 oversized volumes. Access to the collection is unrestricted.

AGENCY HISTORY

Following the overthrow of the Hawaiian monarchy in January, 1893, there was no legislature per se until 1895. On July 2, 1894, a constitutional convention unanimously approved a previously drafted constitution for the Republic of Hawaii, which succeeded the Provisional Government on July 4, 1894. On October 29, 1894, elections were held for the 15 senators and 15 representatives of the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii, which first met, in joint session, at noon on June 12, 1895, to hear President Dole welcome the reconstitution of a regular legislative body in Hawaii and define the important issues confronting the nation. There were four sessions of this legislature: the Special Session of 1895 (53 days), the Regular Session of 1896 (100 days), the Extra Session of 1897 (Senate only, 3 days) which ratified the Treaty of Annexation, and the Regular Session of 1898 (120 days). The Republic of Hawaii officially ceased to exist upon annexation. Although the executive departments continued to carry out their administrative functions, under the auspices of the U.S. State Department, until passage of the Organic Act in 1900, the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii adjourned for the last time on July 7, 1898, coincidentally the same day that President McKinley signed the Resolution of Annexation.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This sub-group documents the functioning of the legislative branch of the Hawaiian government, its interaction with the executive and, to a limited extent, the judiciary, during the period of the Republic. The records reflect both the major policy objectives of the government - Annexation, land reform and Trans-Pacific cable communications - and local issues of concern to the populace. They also contain an occasional curiosity, such as a set of proposed designs for the Great Seal of the Republic of Hawaii.

During the short existence of the Republic of Hawaii, many significant changes occurred which reflected the transition from a native to an American Hawaii. One such change was in the content of the legislative records. In comparison to the records during the monarchical period, the percentage of legislative records in Hawaiian decreased significantly during the period of the Republic. However, the amount of standardization of form, first noted in the earlier period, continued. The daily journals and minutes, traditionally manuscript, by 1898 were typescript. Cover sheets for at least eight categories of document were in use by 1898. Unfortunately, most such covers were printed on paper which was extremely acidic. They have become very embrittled, and there has been significant flaking as a result.

The records have been divided into two series: Official Journals and General Records. The latter includes bills; journals, communications, questions and answers and other procedural records; reports; resolutions; and financial records.

Initial processing accomplished ca. 1907-1910 included unfolding, organizing, foldering and indexing. No translation was done at that time, but some selected translations have occurred subsequently. Additional general processing apparently took place about 1960. Consequently, processing associated with this description was limited to removal of records from open shelf file units, refoldering and boxing in alkaline enclosures, removal of non-archival material and some limited rearrangement to enhance intellectual control.

Some records were discovered during the most recent processing which lacked an obvious relation to the remainder of the collection. If they were considered to be of enduring value based on their own content, they were retained in the collection on the basis that some relation was implied by the mere fact of physical association.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

225 OFFICIAL JOURNALS. 1895-1898. 24 linear inches. 12 volumes: 11 typescript; 1 manuscript; all oversize.

Arranged chronologically (by session) and thereunder the Senate Journal is first, followed by the Journal of the House of Representatives.

The Journals document the proceedings of the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii. The content varies in detail among volumes. For example, the House Journal for the Special Session of 1895 contains, verbatim, the address given by President Sanford B. Dole at the joint session which opened the Legislature on June 12, 1895; the Senate Journal does not even indicate that the joint session took place. In general, however, they contain: a summary of daily sessions, including roll call, motions, results of votes, summaries of discussion, questions to ministers, rulings from the chair, committee reports, either verbatim or summarized, and communications; tabulated information on members of the Legislature, such as the districts from which each was elected, the committee assignments and leadership positions; histories of Senate and House bills, by number and title, including act number when appropriate, showing dates of introduction, referral, readings, etc.; and indexes, by subject, by bill number and by bill title, cross-referenced to pages in the journal. Each entry, compiled from draft minutes kept during the daily session and transcribed after adjournment, is signed by the clerk of the respective body. The manuscript journal provides the only known record of the proceeding of the executive sessions of the 1895 Senate. Annexation figures prominently in the journals, in one of which is recorded the argument that Annexation is necessary to maintain the institutions of "Anglo Saxon civilization," and to deal with the "menace" of Asian immigration. Protests against Annexation are also recorded. Similarly, many pages were required to record deliberations over "An Act Relating to Public Lands." Nevertheless, this very short series contains much that provides insight into other issues of concern in the community, from outlawing foot binding to regulating the plumbing business. There are no restrictions on use of the journals, but care is required in handling some volumes because of fragile bindings. More detailed material dealing with many of the issues summarized in this series is available in Series 226.

226 GENERAL RECORDS. 1895-1896, 1898. 11.2 linear feet.

Arranged chronologically (by session) and thereunder the Senate records are followed by the records of the House of Representatives. There are no general records for the 1897 Extra Session of the Senate.

Consists of the official files of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Republic of Hawaii. It contains bills and laws, including constitutional amendments; communications; financial records; draft journals used to create the official journals in Series 225; miscellaneous material, including Presidential messages; notices; petitions; procedural records, including rules and committee assignments; reports; and resolutions. Assignment of specific items to the foregoing categories is not absolute. Messages, letters, etc., were usually filed as Miscellaneous documents until Communication and Question and Answer cover sheets appeared in 1898, after which messages were filed in all three categories. Most types of record, such as bills, reports, etc., are numbered sequentially, and some numbers are lacking. Records are both on single sheets of paper and in ledgers. In some of the latter, only a very few out of 100 or more pages in the book are actually used. Most of the records appear to have been assembled and maintained by the clerks of the respective legislative bodies, although there is some material in the 1898 House records that would normally be considered part of the personal papers of one of the representatives, which was retained in this series because it has been included from an early date. In general, this series documents the routine proceedings of the Legislature, such as legislative histories of bills, and it provides information and opinion on specific issues, such as road construction. The percent of petitions to total records in this series is much less than it is in a similar series of records for the Kingdom (1840-1892), reflecting a shift away from the earlier use of petitions as the preferred method for citizens to communicate with their elected officials.

RECORDS OF THE LEGISLATURE
OF THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII
1901-1959

INTRODUCTION

The records of the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii is a sub-group of the Records of the Legislature of Hawaii. It includes the Official Journals of the Legislature; numerous types of documents, such as bills, reports, resolutions and petitions; as well as minutes, hearings transcripts, correspondence, and financial records. These records were created or collected by members and staff of the Legislature acting in their official capacities. Receipts, memoranda and other materials in the Archives files provide a record of the accession and initial processing of this sub-group.

The records total 347.60 linear feet, of which about 76.90 linear feet are taken up by 259 bound volumes. Access to the collection is unrestricted except as noted on individual folders. In addition, many of the records have been prepared for microfilming, and access requires supervision by a member of the Archives staff.

AGENCY HISTORY

The last legislature of the Republic of Hawaii adjourned sine die on July 7, 1898. Annexation of Hawaii to the United States followed quickly, but the Organic Act, which established the Government for the Territory of Hawaii, did not take effect until June 14, 1900. Consequently, Hawaii was without a formal legislative body until the First Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii, consisting of a Senate and House of Representatives, whose members were elected in November, 1900, convened, as specified in the Organic Act, on February 20, 1901. The first Senate was made up of 15 members from 4 Senatorial Districts; the House of Representatives had 30 members from 6 Representative Districts. The Organic Act also enumerated the powers of the Legislature, the qualifications of the legislators and the lengths of legislative sessions; and it required, inter alia, that all proceedings be in English. The Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii met in 30 regular biennial sessions, 13 special sessions and 3 extra sessions between 1901 and 1959.

In these sessions, the legislature organized itself into several standing and special committees which carried on the work of hearing testimony, investigating claims, evaluating bills and resolutions, etc. In addition, the legislature occasionally created, usually by joint resolution, holdover committees, to meet between legislative sessions, investigate specific situations or pursue matters which were not dealt with completely during regular and special sessions, and report their findings and recommendations at the succeeding session.

The 30th and last Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii, which, pursuant to a change to the Organic Act that went into effect for the 1958 election, consisted of 25 Senators from 6 Senatorial Districts and 52 Representatives from 18 Representative Districts, adjourned for the last time on May 2, 1959. In August, 1959, Hawaii became the 50th State of the United States of America.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This sub-group documents the functioning of the Legislative Branch of the Hawaiian Government, its interaction with its constituents, the Executive and, to a lesser extent, other agencies and levels of government during the Territorial period. While the records contain the proceedings of the Legislature regarding the major concerns of this period, they are in larger measure a chronicle of the mundane, of the workaday issues that had to be attended to in order for the government and community to grow and prosper.

Although the volume of records created each year grew by an order of magnitude during the Territorial period, the standard types and forms of legislative records that had evolved during the Kingdom and Republic periods generally continued in use, providing for a predictable consistency in the content and organization of the records for the years leading up to Statehood, but there were exceptions. For example, in the early years of this period, representatives gave written notice of their intent to introduce legislation, and such notices were preserved. From 1923, however, notices were no longer made part of the records. Similarly, a change occurred in the Official Journals. The House journals through 1949 and the Senate journals through 1954 have the verbatim text of standing committee reports, resolutions, etc., inserted into the daily minutes, following the form that existed prior to Annexation. After those dates, the form changed. The reports, etc., are cited by number in the diary pages, but reference to another part of the journal is necessary in order to find the full text. The originals of committee reports are in the clerks' records through the 1955 Senate; beginning with the 1955 House, the original reports are bound into the original journal. Duplicate reports in the clerks' records were weeded.

The records have been divided into five series: Official Journals (Series 227); Records of the Clerks (228); Records of the Standing and Special Committees (229); Records of the Holdover Committees (230); and Financial Records (233). The bulk of the records is in Series 228. Except for the journals and a few ledgers, the records in this sub-group were filed together in chronological order and were only separated by series when Series 228 was prepared for microfilming.

There are detailed but incomplete records of accessions of these records from 1905 through 1959; records earlier than 1905 apparently were received from the Secretary of Hawaii. There are items for which receipts are on file but which cannot be located; other records have been located but for which no receipt is on file. There are notes and memoranda in the files which provide glimpses of the interaction of the Archives and the Legislature concerning the administration of these records. Documentation of prior processing is lacking, although it is obvious that some re-folding and re-arrangement took place. Processing associated with this description focussed on reducing bulk through microfilming, discarding duplicate and other non-permanent material, removing and cross-referencing publications and organizing the remainder to facilitate intellectual access.

For example, all of the official journals were received in the Archives already bound into volumes, some of which were found during processing to contain non-record duplicate material. If most or all of the material was duplicate, the volume was disbound and duplicates were discarded; any original material was boxed and retained. At the same time, any original journal material discovered elsewhere was added to the boxes. If duplicate and original materials were intermixed within a volume, it was left intact.

Similarly, looseleaf financial volumes were disassembled and the records boxed, while covers and blank leaves were discarded. More than a score of books of check stubs and blank checks were sampled and discarded.

Several types of housekeeping records, such as internal routing slips, file copies of routine letters of transmittal, original vote tally sheets, attendance sheets, and amendments to bills and resolutions (the last of which are repeated in their entirety in the official journals), were weeded during processing. Other materials, such as resolutions, petitions and standing committee reports, which are also included verbatim in the official journals, as well as bills, which are not, were retained in this sub-group because of the original signatures they contain. Except for the draft journals in Series 228, all draft and duplicate material was weeded. The latter included reports which were transmitted simultaneously to the House and Senate. Only the Senate copy was retained, but a separation sheet was inserted in place of the weeded House copy to indicate that another copy was available in the Senate records.

Materials which document the method by which certain programs were administered, but which were otherwise non-permanent and were present in large numbers, such as applications for pensions, were retained in toto for the year when they initially appeared, but, after sampling, the bulk were weeded from the records of subsequent years.

LEGISLATURE OF THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

227 OFFICIAL JOURNALS. 1901-1959. 78.25 linear feet in 227 volumes and 7 5-inch boxes and 3 3-inch boxes; most volumes are oversize.

Arranged chronologically by session through 1904, and thereunder by legislative body, with the Journal of the Senate first, followed by the Journal of the House of Representatives; from 1905, arranged by legislative body, the Journals of the House of Representatives preceding the Journals of the Senate, and thereunder chronologically by session.

The Journals document the proceedings of the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii. The content varies in detail. In general, Journals always contain minutes of daily sessions, including roll call, motions, results of votes, rulings from the chair; and, either verbatim or cited, committee reports, communications, resolutions, etc. They usually contain tabulated information on members of the Legislature, such as the district from which each was elected, their committee assignments and leadership positions. Most journals include histories of bills, showing dates of introduction, referral, readings, etc.; and indexes. The House journals through 1949 and the Senate journals through 1954 have the verbatim text of standing committee reports, resolutions, etc., inserted into the daily minutes. Thereafter, the reports, etc., are cited by number, but the text is no longer included. Each day's entry is signed by the clerk and President of the Senate or Speaker of the House, as appropriate. The issues addressed and the concerns noted vary widely through time, although there are some constants, such as the quest for Statehood. Although the Statehood issue is prominent in the journals, this series contains a wealth of information that provides insight into the day-to-day concerns of the community, such as fisheries, Hawaiian home lands and post-war planning.

There are no restrictions on use of the journals, but care is required in handling some volumes because of fragile bindings.

More detailed material dealing with many of the issues summarized in this series is available in Series 228, Records of the Clerks, Series 229, Records of Standing Committees and Series 230, Records of Holdover Committees. Intellectually and organizationally, this series is a part of a sub-group of Hawaiian legislative records which includes Series 221, Official Journals of the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom, Series 225, Official Journals of the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii, and Series 300,

LEGISLATURE OF THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII

Journals of the Senate and Series 301, Journals of the House of Representatives, of the Legislature of the State of Hawaii.

- 228 RECORDS OF THE CLERKS. 1901-1959. 235.10 linear feet. 227.12 cubic feet microfilmed on 280 reels of 16 mm microfilm (MFL-143) and 7.98 linear feet of oversized, bound and illegible material in 9 7.5-inch boxes and 5 drop-front (oversize) boxes.

Arranged chronologically by session, thereunder by chamber (Senate, followed by the House of Representatives), thereunder by type of record, in the following order: journals, bills, joint resolutions, concurrent resolutions, resolutions, holdover committee reports, joint committee reports, conference committee reports, Committee of the Whole reports, special committee reports, select committee reports standing committee reports, petitions, Governor's messages, executive communications, communications from the other chamber, departmental communications, miscellaneous communications, orders, questions, answers, notices, miscellaneous, and bills, joint resolutions and concurrent resolutions from the others chamber but not acted upon, and thereunder in numerical order if applicable.

This series contains the various records administered by the clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives in the course of supporting the daily deliberative and law-making activities of the Territorial legislature. As such, it documents the routine proceedings of the legislature. For the most part, this series contains primary material from which the official journals (the legal record of the proceedings of the legislature) were compiled. Predictably, most of the records in this series follow a standard form. Exceptions are materials received from the private sector, among which materials in Hawaiian are common in the first few years, but the quantity diminishes rapidly thereafter; by 1917 they are rare, although they continue into the 1930's. In the early years, some of the materials in this series were retyped in their entirety in the official journals (Series 227); however, one of the strengths of this series, and the reason for retaining such "duplicate" materials, is the original signatures on individual reports, etc., which are lacking in the journals. In later years, generally post-1950, such materials are absent from this series because the original materials themselves were inserted into the journals. Another strength of this series is the bills, which are not repeated verbatim in the journals. In addition, the series provides insights into issues of concern to the government, the legislature and, via petitions from citizens, to the community in general. Issues include Hawaiian statehood from a very early date, as well as specific public works projects, public instruction concerns, business regulation, post-war planning and not a few investigations of alleged malfeasance and incompetence. The series has no particular weaknesses.

There are no restrictions on access; however, most of the records have been placed in a specific order in preparation for microfilming, and access requires supervision by a member of the Archives staff to ensure that the order is not altered during use.

This series amplifies Series 227, Official Journals, and complements Series 229, Records of Standing and Special Committees; Series 230, Records of Holdover Committees; and Series 233, Financial Records; of the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii. Intellectually and organizationally, it is part of a sub-group of Hawaiian legislative records which also includes Series 222, General Records of the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom; Series 226, General Records of the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii; Series 302, Records of the Clerk of the Senate and Series 303, Records of the Clerk of the House of Representatives of the Legislature of the State of Hawaii.

229 RECORDS OF STANDING AND SPECIAL COMMITTEES. 1901-1959. 16.60 linear feet in 17 cubic foot boxes, 8 reels of 16mm microfilm and 2 oversize volumes.

Records are arranged chronologically by session and thereunder the records of Senate committees are first followed by those of the House of Representatives, in order: Committee of the Whole; Select and Special Committee, alphabetically; and Standing Committees, alphabetically. Microfilmed records of departmental budget requests, 1955-1959, are arranged chronologically and thereunder alphabetically by department.

Consists of records maintained by members or staff of the various committees of the two bodies of the Territorial legislature. Consists of correspondence between committee members and others with an interest in matters before the committees, as well as some minutes and testimony of meetings and hearings. Includes invitations to testify; tabulated data; requests for information; requests for pensions; petitions; pleas; submissions of financial and personnel data; and solicited and unsolicited advice and opinion, from members of all branches of government as well as from private individuals. The earliest records in this series were culled from larger files. Not until 1951 were any committee records filed as separate entities. At first, these separate files lacked both completeness and organization. The first committee files to appear regularly are those of the House Finance Committee beginning in 1929, but even those records usually lack minutes or transcripts of hearings. The first complete set of minutes of committee meetings are from 1931. Where they exist, the strength of the records is the transcripts of testimony taken during investigations into specific institutions and circumstances. Such transcripts add important detail to the standing or special committee reports of investigation submitted to the President of the Senate or the Speaker of the House. The major weakness of this series is its incompleteness, which arises from the fact that neither the House nor the Senate rules required committees either to keep any particular records or to preserve such records as they may have created. As a result, there are practically no records for the first decade of the Territorial period, and thereafter there are normally records for only two of three of the dozen or more committees which were established. Although the breadth of coverage is thus extremely spotty, such records as did survive tend to provide in-depth views of how, in general, such committees did business, and, less often, detailed records of proceedings on specific issues.

Departmental budget requests and related materials for the period 1955-1968 were microfilmed (on 48 reels of 16mm microfilm (MFL-85) several years prior to the processing of the records of the Territorial legislature. The microfilmed records are part of the records of the Senate Committee on Ways and Means and the House Committee on Finance. The records for the period 1955-1959, which are contained on the first 7 reels and part of the 8th reel of this film, are by definition part of this series.

There are no restrictions on access, except as may be noted on individual folders. Any such restrictions usually arise when a folder contains information that, if released, could violate an individual's right to privacy under HRS §92F-14.

This series in general tends to supplement Series 227, Official Journals, and Series 228, Records of the Clerks, and to complement Series 230, Records of the Holdover Committees and Series 233, Financial Records, of the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii, and Series 304, Records of the Standing and Special Committees of the Senate and Series 305, Records of the Standing and Special Committees of the House of Representatives, of the Legislature of the State of Hawaii.

LEGISLATURE OF THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII

230 RECORDS OF HOLDOVER COMMITTEES. 1927-1951 (bulk 1942-1951). 10.55 linear feet in 8 cubic foot boxes, 1 card file box and 1 drop-front (oversize) box.

Arranged chronologically, thereunder by committee and: for 1943, thereunder by subject; for 1949, thereunder by sub-committee.

Consists of records created or maintained by members or staff of holdover committees while carrying out the functions for which they were created, viz., to investigate specific situations or to follow up on unresolved matters from legislative sessions. Mainly minutes and transcripts of hearings and reports. Includes correspondence between committee members and individuals party to or with interest in matters being pursued or investigated by the several committees, as well as radiograms, essays, speeches, maps, photographs, memoranda, petitions and published material. The earliest records in this series were interfiled in, and culled from, Series 228, Records of the Clerks. The first holdover committee records filed as a separate entity are those of the 1941 holdover committees: two joint committees which investigated harbors, foreign language schools and the Employees' Retirement System between the end of the 1941 Special Session and the beginning of the 1943 Regular Session. Subjects in the 1943 Holdover Committee records include: aeronautics, personnel classification, compensation (pay, salaries), county government, Hawaiian homes, harbors, highways, housing, juvenile delinquency, post-war planning, public instruction, public welfare, public works, rent control and taxation. Subject in the 1949 Holdover Committee records include: civil service, education, governmental efficiency, rural electrification, health care for the needy, Hawaiian home lands, fire prevention, labor relations and the Nuuanu highway. The strength of this series is in the transcripts of hearings into various matters. Such transcripts supplement the reports submitted by the holdover committees to the legislature. A weakness related to the records is the lack of a playback device for the wire recordings of the hearings of the 1949 Sub-Committee on Un-American Activities. The major weakness within the series is the paucity of records from early holdover committees. Although these early records are incomplete, they contain detailed information concerning several specific issues, such as accusations of misconduct made against the staff of the Waialeale Training School for Boys in 1937, and allegations about mismanagement made by social workers in the Department of Public Welfare in 1943-1944. Concurrently they provide insights into the various ways in which holdover committees carried out their charters.

LEGISLATURE OF THE TERRITORY OF HAWAII

There are no restrictions on access to these records, which in general tend to supplement Series 227, Official Journals, and Series 228, Records of the Clerks, and to complement Series 229, Records of Standing and Special Committees, and Series 233, Financial Records.

233 FINANCIAL RECORDS. 1901-1948. 8.10 linear feet in 4 cubic foot boxes, 1 drop-front (oversize) box and 30 oversize volumes.

Arranged chronologically (by session) and thereunder the records of the Senate are first, followed by those of the House of Representatives.

Consists of records maintained by the clerks and the accounts committees of the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii. Includes vouchers, registers, journals (financial) and ledgers. Documents the expenses of the legislature, in categories such as payroll, supplies and travel. The earliest records preserved individual invoices, vouchers and receipts. Subsequently, a chronological record of payments was maintained which includes date, warrant number, payee and amount. The latter data were entered in a columnar record by expense category. Summary tabulations of expenses by category are included for some years. Provides basic information on the kinds of expenses incurred by the legislature, and the amounts of money involved, during the Territorial period. There are many gaps in the records, which end unaccountably in 1948. Most pages in the bound volumes are blank.

There are no restrictions on access to these records. In some instances, records of committees on accounts are included in Series 229, Records of Standing and special Committees. Additional financial information may be found in the records of other committees in Series 229; in Series 227, Official Journals; Series 228, Records of the Clerks; and Series 230, Records of Holdover Committees.

RECORDS OF THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII
1959-

INTRODUCTION

The Records of the Legislature of the State of Hawaii is a sub-group of the Records of the Legislature of Hawaii. It includes the Official Journals of the Legislature; numerous types of documents created by the legislature, such as bills, reports, resolutions and communications; as well as documents received from other sources, such as testimony of private citizens and interest groups, messages from the Governor and reports of government agencies. These records were assembled by members and staff of the Legislature acting in their official capacities.

Records Transfer Lists (SA-6) and receipts in the Archives files provide a record of the accession and initial processing of some of this sub-group. Although transfer documentation is generally lacking for accessions from 1969-1989, there are few gaps in the records.

The records are in seven series, including bound volumes. To date, only a portion of the records have been arranged and described. This finding aid will be revised as additional records are processed.

Access to the records is unrestricted except as noted on individual folders.

AGENCY HISTORY

The 30th and last legislature of the Territory of Hawaii adjourned sine die on May 2, 1959. Hawaii was admitted as the 50th State of the United States on August 21, 1959, and the Constitution of the State of Hawaii, ratified on November 7, 1950, went into effect. On August 31, 1959, in accordance with Article XVI of the State Constitution, the First Legislature of the State of Hawaii convened in Special Session.

Article III of the State Constitution vests legislative power in a Legislature of two houses, a Senate and a House of Representatives. Such power extends to "all rightful subjects of legislation not inconsistent" with the State Constitution or the Constitution of the United States. Article III also enumerates the powers of the Legislature, the qualifications of the legislators and the lengths of legislative sessions. Through 1968, the Legislature of the State of Hawaii met in general session in odd-numbered years and in budget session in even-numbered years. From 1969 it has met annually in regular session. Special sessions of varying length have been convened when necessary throughout the period of statehood.

LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII

In these sessions, both the House and the Senate organize themselves into several standing committees, and into such special committees as may appear from time to time to be appropriate. These committees hear testimony on resolutions, bills and other matters pending before them as part of the process of determining what action to take thereon. They investigate such claims, circumstances or situations as may be referred to them, and provide opinions and recommendations to the full House or Senate.

The State Constitution of 1950 provided for multiple representatives and senators from individual districts. The first legislature consisted of 25 senators from six districts and 51 representatives from 18 districts. This scheme remained in effect through the Eleventh Legislature in 1982. By that time, the number of districts had increased to 8 senatorial and 27 representative, the result of a succession of redistricting and reapportionment actions. In 1983, as a result of a federally-approved plan, the legislature converted to single-member districts; however, the number of representatives and senators in the legislature has not changed since statehood.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This sub-group documents the functioning of the legislative branch of the Hawaiian government, its interaction with the executive and, to a limited extent, the judiciary, since statehood in 1959. The records reflect both the major objectives of the government, such as fostering progressive social policies and involving government in economic development, and local issues of concern to the populace, such as Hawaiian sovereignty and homosexual marriage.

Since statehood, many significant changes have occurred which reflect the dynamics of an ever-evolving Hawaii. One such change was in the content of the legislative records. In comparison to the records of earlier periods, the volume of records produced by each legislature is much larger, and continues to increase. The Archives accessioned less than 900 linear feet of records of the Legislature of the Territory, records which documented a period of approximately 60 years. In less than 40 years following statehood, over 2,000 linear feet of records were accessioned. One obvious reason for this increase is the fact that the legislature has met annually since statehood rather than biennially, as it did prior to 1959. Second, a relatively larger number of bills has been introduced each year since statehood. Third, a much greater volume of committee records has been accessioned since statehood. Meanwhile, the types of records produced has decreased. For example, the legislature no longer creates joint resolutions, and petitions are rare. Changes in executive procedure have also affected the mix of legislative records. The numbers of governor's messages has increased relative to the numbers of departmental communications, simply due to a change in the method by which the same sorts of material are now transmitted to the legislature. One change affecting access lies in the order in which records are received in the Archives. The predictable, singular arrangement of the Territorial period no longer obtains. The arrangement varies over time within each chamber, and concurrently between chambers. As a result, more involved description is required for this sub-group than was necessary previously.

The records have been divided into seven series: Series 300, Official Journals of the Senate; Series 301, Official Journals of the House of Representatives; Series 302, Records of the Clerk of the Senate; Series 303, Records of the Clerk of the House of Representatives; Series 304, Records of the Standing and Special Committees of the Senate; Series 305, Records of the Standing and Special Committees of the House of Representatives; and Series 306, Files of the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The records of the clerks include bills, concurrent resolutions, resolutions, communications reports and messages. The records of the committees include testimony of individuals who appeared at committee hearings.

The most significant processing decision taken concerning this sub-group was to retain the order in which the records were received, or into which they had been placed during earlier processing in the Archives. Consequently, processing was limited to removal of records from open shelf file units and non-standard boxes; foldering when necessary; boxing in cubic foot archival boxes; removal of non-archival material; and preparation of the records for subsequent microfilming. This decision facilitated processing the records, although, as noted above, it created a requirement for rather more complicated description than was necessary for series in other legislative sub-groups. Another processing decision involved weeding or disbinding of some bound volumes, nominally part of the "original" journals, because, upon inspection, it was determined that they did not contain original material. A third processing decision involved records from Series 303 which were bound into volumes that appear to be part of Series 301: they are labelled "Journals." These volumes, which still have "Journal" printed on their spines, have been integrated into Series 303. Volumes found to contain records from both Series 301 and 303 were disbound and the contents have been integrated into the appropriate series.

Processing of records is ongoing. Ask for assistance from the Reference Archivist for access to unprocessed records.

LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII

SERIES NUMBER: 300

SERIES TITLE: OFFICIAL JOURNALS OF THE SENATE

DATE RANGE: 1959-2000

QUANTITY: 17.33 linear feet in one 3-inch box, 6 cubic foot boxes and 72 bound volumes

CREATOR: Created in the Office of the Clerk of the Senate, Hawaii State Legislature

PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS/CONDITION: Consists of typescript with original signatures in excellent condition. Journals 1981 and earlier are bound.

CONTENT DESCRIPTION: The journal consists of the minutes of the daily proceedings of the Senate of the State of Hawaii; it is the only record which by law the Senate must maintain. The content varies in detail from session to session, but always includes roll call, votes on motions, and reading or citation of various documents introduced or received, such as bills, concurrent resolutions, resolutions, messages from the Governor and other communications. May also include such things as remarks by members and rulings by the presiding officer. Each day's record is signed by both the Senate Clerk and the President of the Senate. A strength of this series is the procedural record it provides. More importantly, it is a record of the issues of concern to the people of Hawaii, as mirrored in the actions of the Senate in addressing those issues. The weakness of the series is that a few records are lacking.

ARRANGEMENT: Arranged chronologically by session.

RELATED SERIES: More detailed material dealing with many of the issues summarized in this series is available in Series 302, Records of the Clerk of the Senate and Series 304, Records of the Standing and Special Committees of the Senate. This series is related to other series of legislative journals, viz., Series 221, Official Journals, Records of the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom; Series 225, Official Journals, Records of the Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii; Series 227, Official Journals, Records of the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii; and Series 301, Official Journals of the House of Representatives, Records of the Legislature of the State of Hawaii.

SERIES NUMBER: 301

SERIES TITLE: OFFICIAL JOURNALS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

DATE RANGE: 1959-2002

QUANTITY: 14.44 linear feet in two 5-inch boxes, one 7.5-inch box, 5 cubic foot boxes and 45 bound volumes

CREATOR: Created in the Office of the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Hawaii State Legislature

PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS/CONDITION: Consists of typescript with original signatures in excellent condition. Journals for 1977 and earlier are bound.

CONTENT DESCRIPTION: The journal consists of the minutes of the daily proceedings of the House of Representatives of the State of Hawaii; it is the only record which by law the House must maintain. The content varies in detail from session to session, but always includes roll call, votes on motions, and reading or citation of various documents introduced or received, such as bills, concurrent resolutions, resolutions, messages from the Governor and other communications. May also include such things as remarks by members and rulings by the presiding officer. Each day's record is signed by both the House Clerk and the Speaker of the House. A strength of this series is the procedural record it provides. More importantly, it is a record of the issues of concern to the people of Hawaii, as mirrored in the actions of the Senate in addressing those issues. The weakness of the series is that a several years' journals are lacking.

ARRANGEMENT: Arranged chronologically by session.

RELATED SERIES: More detailed material dealing with many of the issues summarized in this series is available in Series 303, Records of the Clerk of the House of Representatives and Series 305, Records of the Standing and Special Committees of the House of Representatives.
