START

Apr. 16---1840.

Interview between the Consul and Kekauluohi and Kekuanaoa, in relation to the lands held by the British Consul.

When the conversation started, this is the first thing the Consul said.

"Have you two seen the Document?"

Kekauluohi }
Kekuanaoa }

"Yes, we have seen it."

Consul.

"I own that place. Liholiho wrote from England to Kalaimoku about a piece of land for me. I was to take any land I wanted, whether at Nuuanu or any other place."

Kekuanaoa.

"That is not what I heard while in England. The order given by Liholiho to Kamamalu was to tell Kalaimoku to return the land of Puako and the taxes collected being Olona, and to make everything ready on the land that they might come and live at Puuloa."

Consul.

"I own the place by a deed given to me by Kalaimoku."

Kekauluohi.

"State clearly how you came to own the place."

Consul.

"When I came with the two vessels I gave a large sum of money to the men of the vessels."

Kekuanaoa.

"We cannot understand how this place was disposed of."

Kekauluohi.

"If Kalimoku sold this place they would have told me or Kinau of the fact, or even shown us the documents."

Interview between the Corral and Kalamain and Ke-hanna, in relation to the lands held by the British Corral.

When the conversation started, this is the first thing the Corral said.

"Have you two seen the Document?"

"Yes, we have seen it."

"I own that place. Kalamain wrote from England to Kalamain about a piece of land for me. I was to take any land

I wanted, whether as known or any other place."

"That is not what I heard while in England. The other given by Kalamain to Kalamain was to sell Kalamain to take the land of Kalamain and the taxes collected being done, and to take everything ready on the land that they might come and live at Kalamain."

"I own the place by a deed given to me by Kalamain."

"State clearly how you came to own the place."

"When I came with the two vessels I gave a letter to

of money to the son of the vessel."

"We cannot understand how this place was disposed of."

"It Kalamain told this place they would have told me of this of the fact, or even shown us the document."

Consul. "You heard Kalaimoku at the wooden house when he was leaving for Hawaii."

Kekauluohi. "I did not hear about yours. It was Jim's that I heard."

Consul. "I did not want that place, but I had to accept it so as to end all entanglement."

Kekauluohi. "Just so: because we do not understand the thing clearly therefore we cannot give our consent."

Rooke. "It is perfectly clear, the witnesses are shown on that document to be Boki and Manuia. You both say that you do not understand this: this is just like a rejection on your part of Williams' claim to his land."

Kekuanaoa. "William's claim has not been rejected, it is because we have not received any letter from Kamehameha in regards to that land."

Rooke. "It is not because of the absence of a letter, but because of the hostile attitude entertained toward all Britishers. The Americans are treated fairly which is not fair to the other side."

Kekuanaoa. "One side is not treated any better than the other. We have equally safe guarded the interests of the Britishers and Americans, and have convicted both American and British when tried in our Courts."

Consul. "It would be best to let England settle the matter."

Kekauluohi.

"That would be alright. Let us leave the matter until the arrival of the Man-of-War then adjust matters again."

Consul.

"Here is another thing, about my land Waialele. I may have erred in this matter. Boki gave me the land off hand and I gave him five hundred dollars. I have bought that land. Before this I have been treated decently, but now I am being badly treated. If I have made a mistake, I will burn down my house on that land tomorrow, because the Britishers are being treated harshly and the Americans respectfully. If this settlement is not satisfactory then I will haul down my flag and you people will be obliged to pay me $50,000. The Clementine troubles would be small to this."

Kekauluohi }

"Wait we will question the King."

Kekuanaoa }

Consul.

"That is well."

Consul.

"Here is another thing. The place where I am now living given me by Kalimoku, which is from the horse gate to Kekauonohi's place, then from there to Andrew's place, then from there to Mana Pauma's place then in a straight line to the Horse gate. If either of you desire to see the document you can send some one it is at my house."

This is the interview held between the Consul and Kekauluohi and Kekuanaoa on the 16th day of April 1840. Those who saw or heard the interview were, natives.
